Using Data to Save Money & Reduce Waste in Operations - Steven Pereus, Enlit

Most districts are constantly looking for ways to save money and operate more efficiently. Unfortunately most of the easy savings have been found. The next stage of cost saving will take a different approach. This seminar will review methods for using data to measure, analyze and improve the efficiency and performance of facility operations. Participants will learn how data can be used to identify improvement opportunities that can't be seen with traditional methods. Case histories and specific examples will be a main focus of this presentation. Participants will also learn about a state wide initiative to analyze and benchmark school facilities operations.
